BRIEFS AND PERSONALS.

I've an ending for a poem
That I cannot seem to start;
I would please a flounder poet
To the bottom of his heart.
I have tried and tried to work it,
But it's clearly no avail;
It's the drumming of the partridge
And the whistle of the quail.

You can fancy how he'd take it,
And he'd march all the birds
For their yearly journey southward
(How he'd find the fittest words)
And he'd say that they were lying
Over hill and over dale,
To the drumming of the partridge
And the whistle of the quail.

We invite attention to the advertisement of Mr. M. S. Feldman to be found on this page of the HERALD.

Cards have been issued for the marriage of Mr. N. M. Gill and Miss Maude Foster on the 28th inst at 3 o'clock P. M., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Elam.

Louis Marshall, colored ex-convict, was arrested Tuesday and locked up on a telegram from the Norfolk and Western authorities. The charge against Marshall was not learned.

It was the farmers of Canandaigua county, New York, who demanded and built good roads, and then built their road very cheaply. Cannot Prince Edward county do as well?

Our Y. M. C. A. opened Monday. The reading room is well furnished and a good supply of literature has been ordered. The bath rooms are now being fitted up and will be in operation in a few days.

Cards are out for the marriage of Miss Myrtle Alice Putney, of Cumberland county, and Dr. J. Weldon Smith, of Rowlesburg, Va., Wednesday, April 26th, at "North Wood," Cumberland county, Va.

Ladies of the Episcopal church will give a beautiful cantata at the Opera House next Friday night, the 28th inst. We bespeak for them a large patronage from our people, and we are sure everyone will be delighted with the entertainment.

Mr. S. P. Vandersides informs us that actual work of erecting the telephone exchange for Farmville will be commenced about the 1st of May. This will be most gratifying intelligence to the business men of the town who appreciate the advantages of a first class phone system connected with their places of business.

The Richmond Dispatch calls attention to the fact that in Nebraska bank directors are required to direct or suffer the consequences of their failure so to do. The law ought to be general. Here in Farmville they do direct. They meet regularly and attend strictly to the business they are charged with, and this is as well known to the patrons of the bank as the worthy cashier and his assistants are on duty.

Prince Edward county has had at work this month a sufficiently large force of men and mules with their grading machine to have built a mile of 12 foot road had the county owned a 12-horse power crusher and a 15-horse power roller—the rock being not more than half a mile from the road. Why not let the town and county buy such an outfit? The county could then allow the farmers to pay a part of their taxes in stone delivered at the crusher.

We invite inspection of our stock before purchases are made elsewhere.

The Nation's Own Buffalo Bill's Wild West-Long Excursion Rates.

The appearance of "Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Congress of Rough Riders of the World" at Lynchburg, Va., April 24th, will be the occasion of an immense outpouring of people. For this important event the Norfolk and Western is making preparations to handle the crowd and will offer very low excursion rates, and run a special train.

The Buffalo Bill Show, always an instructive and interesting exhibition, has added many new and thrilling features for this season's tour, the most noteworthy and timely being a magnificent reproduction of the Battle of San Juan, which will be presented with great accuracy as to detail, and participated in by hundreds of actual survivors of that historic struggle, including a number of Roosevelt's Rough Riders. With the realistic scenery the din and roar of the musketry and cannon, the fierce battle raging all the while, the spectator will easily imagine himself at the very scene of the struggle.

Meeting of Supervisors.

The meeting of the Board of Supervisors was held last Friday, the 14th. The members present were R. M. Burdette, J. M. Venable, A. A. Haskins and G. W. Scott. Bills to the amount of $226.01 were ordered to be paid.

It is ordered that the order heretofore entered, whereby it was considered that all main highways leading out from Farmville, should be first worked, to the county line, be rescinded, and in lieu thereof, it is ordered that the main thoroughfares be worked for a distance of ten miles in each district, starting from Farmville.

R. M. Burton was appointed a committee to inspect the macadam roads around Charlotte, N. C., ascertain the cost and mode of building same and report to the board.

G. W. Scott and R. M. Burton were appointed a committee to examine Price's bridge and determine necessary repairs, cost, &c.

Mr. H. A. Stokes consented that the private road running through the land of Col. Henry Stokes could be used by public, and it was ordered that the road superintendent do work said road with his machine when working the public roads in that section.

R. M. Burton was authorized to contract with Mr. A. M. Elam, his bid having been accepted, for building a bridge across Buffalo river, near Calkins, according to specifications, at the price of $90.

R. M. Burton was appointed a committee to have a suitable foot bridge built across Little Buffalo, near the town of Farmville.

New Goods, attractive stock, low prices, excellent qualities at Feldman's.

New Tobacco Warehouse.

The work of laying the foundation for a new tobacco warehouse and storage room has been commenced, and soon the handsome building will be completed. This new enterprise will be known under its charter name—The Star Warehouse and Storage Company.

Its location is on the sites where the big factories of E. L. Morris and John R. Martin stood, right alongside the railroad track and close to factories. In fact will be most admirably situated for the tobacco buyer as well as the seller. The large increase in the sales of tobacco on this market the past two years has made this additional warehouse a necessity, and a number of our enterprising citizens determined to meet the demand.

The new house will be over 5,000 hogheads capacity, two stories and a basement, 135 by 65 feet. Speaking of this new storage and inspection house the Southern Tobaccoist and Manufacturers Record says:

Farmville sells 10,000,000 pounds of tobacco, say 8,000 hogheads per annum. It is planters' trade Farmville handles, with all the profit there, but the inspection and storage fee.

With only 4,000 hogheads stored and inspected there would be $8,000 thus kept in fees and labor, besides saving in drayage in Farmville hands, which of course means that much more cost to those compelled to buy in Farmville, paying the charges. These things predicted have already come about, and are in the natural way of live business.

The Farmville Warehouse is being built by the bank and tobacco men and citizens, and there was no demonstration or trouble to raise the money. If Farmville can afford such a warehouse, then Richmond ought to have a half million invested in warehouses.

Men's, Boys, Youths and Children's Clothing of fine quality and at lowest prices at Feldman's.

Death of a Good Woman.

STODERT, VA., April 17th, '99.
Mrs. Martha Francis Blanton, beloved wife of Mr. Thomas W. Blanton, died at her home in Cumberland county on Tuesday, April 16th, from consumption, being 69 years old.

Since early childhood she had been a consistent member of the Baptist church, and although greatly attached to her own denomination, she was ever ready to aid in all christian endeavor of every name and denomination. She was true and faithful in every capacity of her long and useful life, and was loved, honored and respected by all who knew her.

She was the only surviving sister of Messrs. Thomas and Willie Bruce of Sandy River neighborhood, the last two living representatives of the family. There is something remarkable about her life; having been born on the 1st, married on the 28th and dying on the 19th day of the poetic month of "smiles and tears." The end was calm and peaceful like the restful sleep of a weary child.

She had "done what she could" in this life and patiently awaiting the reward of the Righteous.
"He giveth His beloved sleep."

Death of Mr. Gilliam.

Mr. Gorman Gilliam, father of our townsman, Mr. W. P. Gilliam, died on Tuesday morning last, at 5 o'clock. He had been in feeble health for many months and on account of his extreme age, being in his 91st year, there had not been entertained any idea of his improving. His funeral took place Wednesday afternoon, the interment being made in the family burying ground. Owing to the sudden illness of Mr. W. P. Gilliam, his son, he was unable to attend the burial.

Another Store Burglarized.

During Monday night the store formerly occupied by F. W. Holman whose stock was recently sold to J. R. Martin, was broken into and robbed. The amount of goods taken is not definitely known, but is estimated to be more than $50. The burglars effected entrance by tearing out brick from beneath a back window and crawling through. They then opened the back door and carried the stolen goods out. No arrests have been made up to this time.

GUILTY, SAY THE JURY.

CONVICTED AGAIN OF MURDER.

Thomas W. Price to Hang For The Killing of Hall Carter—The Prisoner Receives The Verdict Calmly—Motion For New Hearing.

"We, the jury find the prisoner, Thomas W. Price, guilty of murder in the first degree."

These were the awful words which fell upon the ears of the defendant last night as he stood and faced the jury. The twelve men were polled and then the usual motion for a new trial was made.

The case of the commonwealth against Thomas W. Price, charged with the murder of Mr. Hall Carter near Darlington Heights on the morning of July 31st, 1898, came up for trial in Prince Edward county court last Monday.

The prisoner was escorted to the court room by the jailor and the deputy sheriff, and was accompanied by his brother, Mr. A. J. Price. The prisoner looked depressed, and he wore the pallor peculiar to those who have been confined for long periods. Yet, Mr. Price was cheerful in his manner to all who approached him with the hand shake.

The Court after exhausting two venies in endeavor to procure an unprejudiced jury for the case, concluded that it would expedite matters to send to another town for a venire and accordingly the sheriff was ordered to go to Lynchburg for twenty jurors.

In the examination of the thirty-two men comprising the two venies summoned, eleven acceptable ones were found. Five more were lacking, and not being convenient or even probable that this number could be obtained in the county remote from the place of the tragedy, the Court determined to go elsewhere for the whole jury and the eleven were discharged.

The chief reason given by those of the venies rejected for not being able to serve was that they had formed opinion from reading the newspapers.

Sheriff Dickinson went to Lynchburg Monday night and returned Tuesday afternoon with a venire of twenty men. They were Messrs. W. N. Wellford, C. R. Wilson, R. T. Mahone, H. D. Johnson, R. J. Burdett, A. F. Dean, W. P. Dillon, E. D. Englelove, Robt. Kinrier, Silas Ogden, J. H. Peters, W. E. Clark, D. E. Slaughter, W. R. Goode, E. H. Beasley, W. E. Braton, F. H. Adams, L. W. Baughan, F. J. Roekenback, T. O. Sandise, Earnest Hull.

Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock court was opened and several of the jurors who had strong reasons therefor were excused by the Court and allowed to return to Lynchburg. The jurors were called up four at a time, were sworn and the customary questions asked by the Court. There was not the slightest trouble in securing sixteen, the requisite number from which the jury proper was to be chosen.

Out of the twenty-one brought from Lynchburg there was but one who had formed an opinion of the case and thought he could not conscientiously set in the trial. This gentleman was Mr. Robert Kinrier, who was formerly a student of Hampden-Sidney and knew of the prisoner. Besides Mr. Kinrier had visited Mr. Price while imprisoned in Lynchburg. A better looking or more intelligent appearing body of men never sat in the jury box of Prince Edward. After the four had been stricken off by the defense the following gentlemen composed the panel: W. M. Wellford, C. R. Wilson, Earnest Hull, H. D. Johnson, R. J. Burdett, W. P. Dillon, E. D. Englelove, J. H. Peters, F. H. Adams, F. J. Roekenback, Silas Ogden and L. W. Baughan.

The first witness examined was Mr. Theodore Carter the father of the murdered boy. He made substantially the same statements as at the first trial. The other commonwealth's witnesses were called to the stand in the same order as at the former trial and in each case the witness told about the same story. The most important witness for the prosecution was Spencer Hill. He gave nearly the same story as on the first trial varying only as to immaterial points, which seemed to be due to inaccurate memory rather than anything else. He was put through a rigid cross-examination by Judge Mann for the defense.

At 2 o'clock the court resumed session. Some of the witnesses of the morning were recalled to the stand and after taking testimony of General Womack, Jessie Johnson, T. P. Singleton, T. P. Cobb and B. F. Hunt, the prosecution rested its case. The following witnesses for the defense were then called: E. L. Dupuy, J. Wyatt Crute, Henry Thweatt, F. W. Porterfield, Capt. Fowles, A. J. Price (brother of prisoner), G. B. Elam and Dr. Watkins.

These witnesses testified that Price was under the influence of whiskey on the afternoon before the killing and that drink always made a fool and bad man of him.

Some related conversations held with the prisoner in which he had spoken in the highest terms of Hall Carter.

At 5 o'clock court adjourned till 8 p. m. when Dr. Taliaferro, of Pamplin, who made the autopsy, was examined.

At the session of court Wednesday night Mr. W. C. Franklin, for the prosecution, attempted to prove by Dr. Taliaferro that in the case of a gunshot wound inflicted in close proximity to the body—say in nineteen inches—the skin would be blackened and burned by the powder, asking Dr. Taliaferro if that would not necessarily be the result.

sult. Dr. Taliaferro refused to testify upon that line as an expert. He was then asked if Reese, on medical jurisprudence, was not good authority, and if Reese took that position.

The Court refused to compel the Doctor to testify as an expert, and would not allow Mr. Franklin to introduce as evidence what Reese says on the subject in his jurisprudence.

Mr. Price, the prisoner, was on the witness stand the whole of yesterday morning's session and was subjected to a most trying cross examination by counsel for the prosecution. The lengthy testimony given at his first trial was read to him and he was asked if that as given then was the truth. He replied "yes, so far as possible to have been." This testimony as recorded from first trial was given to the jury to save the witness having to repeat it over.

The prosecution endeavored to extract from Mr. Price a motive for killing Hall Carter by questioning him about a quarrel had with the father of the deceased several months before the tragedy. The defense objected and a heated argument followed between counsel. The Court sustained the defense. The prosecution next tried to introduce the shirt worn by the deceased at the time of the shooting, the garment having been lost in a pile of trash behind the jail building, and been exposed to atmospheric conditions and changes for many months. This the Court refused to allow.

After hearing testimony in rebuttal yesterday afternoon the commonwealth rested and argument was at once commenced by Mr. Franklin. Mr. Franklin's opening remarks were very feeling as he referred to the long existing friendship between himself and the family of the deceased, and also of his many years acquaintances with the aged prisoner. The speaker made a forceful, earnest plea for the conviction of Mr. Price, going over much if not quite all the testimony, and presenting it from the standpoint of his position as one of the prosecutors. There are few if any who have ever spoken before this bar who hold more closely the attention of the jury than does Mr. Franklin, and his effort yesterday was masterly and seemed to impress the jury most deeply.

Judge Mann followed Mr. Franklin and Judge Watkins closed for the prosecution. The case was then given to the jury. Judge Mann's speech in behalf of the prisoner was an able one, and that of Judge Watkins for the commonwealth is considered to have been one of the best ever heard in this courthouse.

It was 7 o'clock when the case was given to the jury, and after supper they were brought back from their hotel to the jury room and deliberated until 10 o'clock, when the verdict was rendered. The prisoner heard the words of the verdict without displaying any emotion, but was heard to exclaim in slightly audible tones: "Oh! my God." The courtroom was thronged and yet so solemn was the occasion and so respectful was the crowd that a pin could be heard to fall.

When the prisoner was brought into court last night, he called the HERALD reporter to him and said: "I never felt as happy in all my life." When asked what he attributed his sudden joy to be replied he didn't know unless it was the result of his earnest prayers. His fate, then in the hands of the jury, was not known to him or any outsider. He talked more freely than usual and was in a very cheerful mood. He did not change materially from this mood after the verdict, and was even in better spirits this morning when visited at the jail by several of the jurors.

He remarked this morning that he did not see how the verdict could have been different from the testimony before the jury, and therefore he was not the least surprised.

Mr. Price will probably be sentenced next Monday.

Store Burned at Rice.

The store of Messrs. Hubbard & Weaver located at Rice, this county, was totally destroyed by fire last Monday morning about 5 o'clock. Everything was destroyed, we hear, excepting a few plows. The origin of the fire is unaccounted for, but the impression is it was set afire by rats. The loss of the firm over and above the insurance of $1,500 is estimated as $1,000.

PRINCE EDWARD DEMOCRATS.

Old Officers Re-nominated—Good Roads Address—Full Representation.

The Democratic County Convention was held in the courthouse Tuesday last. A full delegation from every district was present and a pleasant or more harmonious convention never met. Capt. Burton presided and Dr. W. M. Holladay was elected secretary. The delegates whose credentials were found to be correct were as follows:

Farmville—Messrs. A. R. Venable, Jr., R. D. Miller, J. V. Rice and J. E. Ligon.

Lockett—Messrs. W. A. Bruce and T. H. Bruce.

Buffalo—Messrs. W. H. Walden, R. Lee Price, S. N. Cunningham and Ben Abbott.

Hampden—Messrs. G. W. Redd, W. M. Holladay, Wm. McCraw and E. L. Dupuy.

Leigh—J. J. Owen and James T. Owen.

All the old officers of the county were re-nominated excepting Mr. W. L. Clark, who recently withdrew from the contest. Mr. R. J. Carter, one of the county's most intelligent and popular young farmers, was put up to succeed Mr. Clark. The rest of the ticket is as follows:

For Clerk of the County and Circuit Courts—W. H. Thackston.

For Commonwealth's Attorney—A. D. Watkins.

For Sheriff—T. H. Dickinson.

For Treasurer—W. H. Ewing.

Every nominee present delivered short addresses expressing appreciation of the confidence reposed in them and pledging their best endeavors to merit the pleasure and approbation of all good people in the faithful discharge of official duty.

The splendid feature of the convention was an address by Mr. H. W. Anderson, of Richmond, on the subject of good roads. He is an accomplished, fluent, graceful speaker, and the impression made on his hearers Tuesday by his plain, practical, common sense speech, will, we have no doubt, result in much benefit to those of our citizens who are laboring for the betterment of Prince Edward's highways. Mr. Anderson gave illustration after illustration of the benefits to be enjoyed from good roads, and informed our people of the cost approximately of macadamizing them. It was a genuine pleasure to listen to this speaker, and we regret that all our people could not hear him.

Lock of Material.

RICE, VA., April 19, '99.

Mr. Swan is very much handicapped in the good work he is now doing by a plentiful lack of material to build culverts. Cannot the supervisors who are our road commissioners, see to it that it is supplied? Are there no responsible men who will furnish the timber when required? Are our supervisors willing to accept duties they do not perform? If such is the case it would be well for the districts to look around for men who are as willing to do the work as to accept the position. The post or office of supervisor is the most important in the county, and should be one of great honor. The duties are not easy and the responsibilities are very great. The office should be exercised without fear or favor for the good of the county. Because the pay is small is no reason why the work should be shirked, nor can our officers be so accused, but in this matter of roads, road material and the construction of bridges, they have not given the county the results that their constituents had a right to expect, for several reasons. First, because both supervisors and people had been used always to mud for roads, pine poles for culverts and bridges of the most peculiar construction, and were unacquainted with any other. Secondly, our worthy officers were not engineers and could not be expected to be experts in these things. These things being true it is well not to blame them too much, but we can hope that they will in future learn to know a road should they be so fortunate as to see one—to get in future from some engineer the plans for a bridge when one is needed, or at any rate to stop the destruction of young pine trees, and allow the culverts to be made of good, strong oak boards, thick enough not to bend too much. We might have said compel the use of boards, but we are sure the road men will use them should the supervisors see fit to furnish said boards, and not be content to order them and not see that they are put in place. #.

Present-Day Thoughts.

BY "SEMO."

A Washington Memorial—A few words are now timely as to the progress of the idea for making next December 14 (the hundredth anniversary of his death) a Washington memorial day throughout the country.

It is winning approval in several important bodies, and their influence is already being exerted to bring it to pass.

The Society of American Authors, which includes Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, Mrs. E. H. Walworth, General Lew Wallace and others of importance has sent the following resolution in engrossed form to the President of the United States, to the Vice-President and to the Speaker of the House. In addition it has distributed one thousand printed copies throughout the country:

"Whereas, the fourteenth day of next December marks the completion of one hundred years since the death of George Washington; and

"Whereas, the Society of American Authors recognizes the importance of giving special emphasis to such a centennial; therefore be it

"Resolved, by the society in annual meeting assembled, that a fit recognition of the occasion would be the legal cessation of all avoidable labor for that day, in order that the nation may be free to do honor to the memory of one whose life and acts and patriotism have in large measure rendered possible the progress, the strength and the political freedom of the United States."

Similar action has been taken by the Daughters of the Cincinnati, and before this brief record is read four other important patriotic bodies will have acted in the same way.

At the meeting of the board of officers of the Order of United American Mechanics on the 11th instant special action was considered and the national secretary was instructed to prepare a petition to the President asking for the setting aside of the day for the purpose. From the head office a circular letter will be sent to every subordinate Council of the Order urging similar and immediate action. This body is exclusively composed of native-born Americans.

On the other hand, one thousand men and boys on the crowded east side of New York—nearly all of them Russian exiles—have signed a petition to Governor Roosevelt asking for the same thing, because they recognize how much of the hopefulness that fills the heart of the emigrant comes from the leadership and success of Washington himself the leader of a large proportion of emigrants.

Furthermore, the Adjutant General and Chief of Staff of the United Confederate Veterans, write: "The United Confederate Veteran Association is purely social, literary, historical and benevolent and of course was formed for the specific purpose of caring for maimed and disabled veterans, but I am sure that every old veteran's heart will give a responsive throb in approval of anything which is done to honor the 'Father of His Country'."

The plans of the various Masonic bodies throughout the country are also rapidly maturing. Every Grand Lodge of the country will be represented at the Mt Vernon gathering on December 14th and there is also being completed an effort to have every lodge in every corner of the country publicly identify itself with local effort to do honor to the one who though dead, yet speaks.

Some details regarding the attitude of the colleges will give further idea of the spread of the conviction that the one hundredth anniversary should be publicly commemorated.

Georgetown University, (Washington, D. C.) writes: "Our faculty had some time ago decided that we should do what we could to commemorate the centennial anniversary of Washington's death, and has therefore arranged to have all the speeches delivered at our commencement by our graduates of this year treat of Washington as a subject. The individual subject will be: 'Washington as a Citizen,' 'Washington as a General' and 'Washington as President.'"

Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn.: "We shall make the 14th of next December a holiday with appropriate commemorative exercises."

University of Denver, University Park, Col.: "We have decided to observe the one hundredth anniversary in some suitable way throughout the university."

University of Wooster, Wooster, O.: "It is in every way both appropriate and important. If there is any nation in the world which has noble antecedents worth cherishing, it is ours, and there is special need, considering our conglomerate elements, for looking to the hole of the pit whence we were dug and the rock whence we were hewn."

Shaw University, Raleigh, N. C.: "We are heartily in sympathy with the movement to have December 14 next set apart throughout the country as George Washington memorial day. Our faculty will unanimously agree to observe the day and use its influence in this direction."

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich.: "The idea of suggesting special celebrations in honor of the memory of Washington is a very happy one. Surely we cannot too frequently nor too emphatically commend to our people the lessons to be drawn from his life."

Ogden College, Bowling Green, Ky.: "We shall cheerfully do what we can to help in making this a Washington year." Our American youth can have no grander study or loftier ideal than George Washington."

Union Theological Seminary, New York: "We are in sympathy with the proposition, and believe that a careful and reverent study of so great a subject must make for ethical advance and higher ideals of citizenship and patriotism."

West Virginia University, Morgantown, W. Va.: "We shall do what we can this year to call the attention of our students to the life and work of Washington."

Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Ia.: "Our faculty has briefly discussed the wisdom of a special observance of December 14, and we are confident that not only in Iowa but in the whole country there will be an observance of the day and suspension of ordinary business."

These encouraging details are merely partial echoes of what is going on; for when public opinion approves a plan it progresses by leaps and by bounds and waits for no hand to record it. The strength of this movement is that it is based upon sentiment. When sentiment and dreams and visions shall fade out of national life, it will be a sad day for us. These three are they that cause discontent with mere living, and make us lay hold on the past and forestall the future as a means of thrilling our hearts with ennobling ideas of national purpose progress and destiny.

What are you, individually, doing to create public opinion in this matter? Public opinion is the play of the word, thought and deed of neighbor upon neighbor. It is neither a far-away thing nor mysterious. Try your own power in creating enthusiasm about Washington and thus honor the honored dead.
